Gene-edited Mosquito Vaccines Could Lead to Mass Vaccination Without Consent, Kim Iversen Warns

In a recent episode of "The Kim Iversen Show," Iversen criticized a government-funded study using genetically modified mosquitoes to vaccinate humans against malaria — and the researchers' claims that the mosquitoes would never be used to vaccinate people without their consent.

In a recent episode of "The Kim Iversen Show," Iversen discussed a National Institutes of Health-funded vaccine trial study on using genetically modified (GM) mosquitoes to vaccinate humans against malaria.

Iversen told viewers she doubted the researcher's claims that the mosquitoes wouldn't be used to vaccinate people against their consent.

A University of Washington team of researchers, led by Sean Murphy, M.D., Ph.D., conducted the study, which was published in the Science Translational Medicine journal.

The researchers genetically altered the malaria-causing Plasmodium falciparum parasite, removing several genes to create a "minor version of malaria" incapable of causing sickness in humans. Mosquitoes were exposed to the parasite before as many as 200 were allowed to bite each participant, three to five times over a 30-day period — enough to create antibodies lasting up to six months.

Murphy and his co-authors said they used mosquitoes — rather than syringes — to save cost and that they were not planning to use the technology to mass vaccinate millions of people without their consent.

"Yeah, right," Iversen responded, adding:

> "Bull. If anybody is going to call bull on this, it's you and me because this is bull. They intend to use the science for something."

According to Iversen, the "big question" about the study is, "What are you going to do with this science, with this research?"

"Essentially," she said, "a government, I could imagine, would buy the batch of genetically modified mosquitoes and release it to its population."

She continued:

> "Then what happens to the mosquitoes? They get inside of crates. They get shipped around the world [and] they go with people places. … So now you're going to vaccinate the entire world without the world's consent by using this science."

"What is the purpose of this science if it's not for that?" she added.

Iversen pointed out that Dr. Kirsten Lyke, a vaccine researcher and professor of medicine at the University of Maryland, commended using a genetically modified live parasite as "a total game changer" for vaccine development.

Lyke led the Phase 1 trials for the Pfizer/BioNTech COVID-19 vaccine and also served as co-investigator for Moderna's and Novavax's COVID-19 vaccine trials.

"So there you go," Iversen said. "You've got COVID-19 researchers saying, 'This is great.'"

Iversen said she hoped the GM mosquitoes did not escape from the study into the wild — "but how do they know?" she asked.

"Did they account for every single mosquito? Did any of them escape from the lab by chance?" she asked, adding, "This is like the [COVID-19] lab leak."

Folks, do not believe them. They just did exactly this during the last two and one half years.

Know exactly what you are putting in your body.

They wouldn't conduct the study unless they had a planned use case. What legally can be done to stop this stuff?

Yes and we're all drinking the water from our tap, inhaling mutant strains of covid and eating nano-particles they put into our food. The mosquito, the bane of my existence, is just another one of their vectors. Wear repellent and skeeter clothing. I purchased a set of netted hats at the dollar store one year and still use them. Protect from ticks too. Apparently, 400,000 people are now allergic to red meat and some poultry thanks to their tick bite (alpha- gal syndrome) ...gee, how ironic and timely is that?

I don't want any vaccines, or "vaccines", ever again. And I especially do not like the idea of being "vaccinated" by a biting insect. This mosquito plan is wrong on so many levels - the unintended consequences of releasing GMO mosquitos into the wild, for one thing. Anybody else still being infested with Asian beetles each summer?

How do they prevent one individual from being "vaccinated" repeatedly?

The drug companies should give up on vaccines entirely and put their scientific know how to positive use.

This is unethical and unneeded. How many people are getting malaria in the US and cannot get treated? Does hydroxychloroquine not work for that either anymore? Spend the research dollars on something more constructive like how to cure diabetes, or better yet, prevent it with educating doctors on healthy eating.

No interest in this agenda since it's opposite of their...agenda. Doctors can't 'educate' on healthy eating when they are not informed, nor care about that, AND the people (I'm a nurse - not many even stay with it due to food addictions). Yes, HCQ, and IVM work too :)

Who, CDC, etc are not in control of measures that would actually help people maintain good health. most folk are not aware what an eugenisist is. A eugeniscist is what Gates and Fauci are. they desire less people in the world and more control of those that manage to survive. they see peop;le as a plague on the earth.. By killing us off slowly but surely they are essentially making us realize just how precious life is. We will bring good back into the word God. enough of this murder and mayhem. its our planet. not theirs.

Good point, Steven. And even if they get us down to 500 million - the easier to control you with, my dears - they won't give up on the controlling front. Because they lust after total power. Power Over Others. Or POO for short. Where in actuality, We Are All One. And a whole lot of Us are in sore need of a wakeup call, to that effect.

"...edited Mosquito Vaccines Could Lead to Mass Vaccination Without Consent, Kim Iversen Warns"

That won't fly, not because it's a crime, but because mosquitoes don't know the psychopaths from the rest of us when they administer the toxin.

Reminder:

Medical science tells us there are no vaccines for cold viruses, COVID-19 being a cold coronavirus. Additionally, there's no such thing as a virus,* the invention of viruses' purpose being to annihilate humanity, per Karl Marx's directive for the "requirement...[for the] abolition of religion"...

"The struggle against religion is, therefore, indirectly the struggle against that world whose spiritual aroma is religion."

"The abolition of religion as the illusory happiness of the people is required for their real happiness. The demand to give up the illusion about its condition is the demand to give up a condition which needs illusions."

If the mosquitoes aren't being injected into your body then its not a vaccination. Just being bitten by a mosquito even if its a GMO mosquito is not a vaccination.

you're right. however the cabal has changed the definition of vaccination to make people think gene therapy is a vaccine. not. its a bio weapon the like of which we've never seens.

No, not technically a vaccine but neither is Covid jabs. Being bitten by mosquitos does transmit things, hence people get malaria, Ebola, West Nile Virus....how many times do you have to be bitten? There is no ethical way to test that on humans as nobody I know volunteers to get any of the above just for science.

Don't the genetically modified plants change over time? How do they know they won't create something worse in the longterm? What is to prevent someone from making this into a bioweapon? This is another WMD this is not about medicine.

Covid 19 'escaped' from a lab and look how many people died! When is the public going to demand a moratorium on this type of science!

Mephistopheles Gates and his cronies will never stop cooking up ways to reduce the world population. I totally agree with what Kim Iverson says about GM mosquitos. Malaria is not a problem in North America, so their target is obviously Africa with millions of people.
Having been born and raised in South Africa, we knew how to cope with mosquitos, and dengue fever when living in Central America.
There were different ways to use DDT safely to combat mosquitos until Rachel Carson published her hysterical book on it's use.
That led to a complete ban of DDT, even though there was no evidence in Southern Africa of the harm she attributed it to. It did not matter that the ban caused more harm to people.
This latest attempt at mosquito control will be way more harmful.
Allegedly a sterilising agent in tetanus vaccines was given to Kenyan women of childbearing age in 2014.

When Sean Murphy stated that his team's intent was not mass vaccination, I believe him. Dr. Murphy is most likely another example of the academic researcher who keeps their rose colored goggles firmly planted on their face while reaching for that grant money. Such people want to save the world, but they never stop to question the motives of the people paying the bills. It's much, much darker and more dangerous than just vaccines. The people funding this research are transhumanists and technocrats, part of a very large, international cult with vast resources and political clout. This technology, combined with the modified RNA (it isn't messenger RNA) from the Covid-19 experiment, can give them their holy grail; the ability to edit the genome of every human (and every other living thing) on Earth, without our knowledge or consent. They believe they are destined to become gods, and no law is going to stop them from trying. They have the resources to do this, and we have no practical way to stop them.

Consider the planned release of mosquitoes here in California; we may have a court order, but I suspect it was done anyway. A few weeks ago, we were inundated with mosquitoes. Unlike our local pests, these attacked aggressively, low to the ground. They even went after me, and I'm one of those people mosquitoes usually don't bother. They vanished just as suddenly as they appeared. We had heard low flying aircraft on several nights just before this happened.

I honestly don't think we've seen a new disease in over forty years that didn't come out of a lab. Given the lack of any real consequences, The Cult has learned that it really is easier (and far more profitable!) to ask for forgiveness than permission.

Dark times are coming, events and changes for which there is no adequate defense or preparation. We're just going to have to put our trust in God and luck, I'm afraid.

I think it is very misleading to use the word "vaccination" in this context. All they want to achieve is spreading a modified biological organism, potentially harmful. They simply modify the parasite, it could also create a Frankenstein version of it by accident or by "accident". It should by all means fall under the classification of a potential bio-weapon, and maybe that is the true idea behind this (gain of function on parasites IS possible, very different from the gain of function bogus research on viruses, that is only intended for misleading public to not look into the real issue of the virus infection theory being false). Tempering with nature has never been a good idea. Nature will survive either way, humanity will too, but not in the "modern world" but in the jungle.
